1. INTRODUCTION

This guide is intended to help self-represented parties, or parties who represent themselves without a lawyer, by providing basic information about the appeals process in Georgia and the steps that must be taken in appealing to the Court of Appeals of Georgia. This guide is not legal advice and may not be cited as legal authority. Parties are strongly encouraged to obtain a lawyer to represent them in an appeal. The rules are complicated, and there are important deadlines that must be met. The failure to follow rules or meet deadlines may – and often does – result in an appeal being lost or dismissed. Such failure may also result in documents being returned to a party for correction. The Court may also return documents for corrections.

For parties who decide to represent themselves, it is important to read – and understand – this Court’s rules and the Georgia statutes (laws) regarding appeals. This guide should be used along with those relevant Court rules and Georgia statutes, which will be referred to throughout this guide. This guide is not all-inclusive, and it is not a substitute for reading and understanding the rules and statutes.

You are not allowed to file pleadings (documents) on behalf of anyone other than yourself unless you are a licensed attorney admitted to practice in this Court. A corporation must be represented by a licensed attorney and may not be represented by an employee, director, or officer of the corporation. See Eckles v. Atlanta Technology Group, Inc., 267 Ga. 801 (1997). Although you have the constitutional right in Georgia to represent yourself, the unauthorized practice of law – representing someone else – is forbidden and may subject you to criminal penalties. See OCGA § 15-19-51.

Contact by any party with a judge of this Court or any member of a judge’s staff is strictly forbidden. All communication with the Court must be by written documents filed with the Clerk of Court, along with copies served upon (mailed to) opposing counsel and any parties without lawyers. Also, staff of the Clerk’s Office are not allowed to give you suggestions or legal advice or make any specific recommendations about how to pursue an appeal or defend against an appeal.

Please note that all documents filed by self-represented parties must be in paper format. Self-represented parties may submit an email address to the Clerk of Court to receive unofficial copies of opinions or orders, but the Clerk is required by law to send you a written copy of these documents by U. S. mail. Attorneys practicing in this Court must submit all documents electronically.

2. INFORMATION ABOUT THE COURT OF APPEALS

The Court of Appeals of Georgia is the intermediate appellate court for the State of Georgia. The Court of Appeals reviews appeals from the trial courts or lower courts when jurisdiction is not exclusively reserved to the Supreme Court of Georgia or other courts. (See Section 11: the Georgia Court System, in this guide). Cases come to the Court of Appeals in three ways: by direct appeals, or appeals by right; by granted applications for discretionary appeal, or appeals the Court agrees to hear at the end of a case; and granted applications for interlocutory appeal, or appeals before a trial ends that the Court agrees to hear.

The Court of Appeals has fifteen judges, who are divided into five “divisions.” Each division has three judges, one of whom is a presiding judge. Generally, an appeal will be decided only by those three judges. All of the judges review the record, the briefs, and the relevant law. The judge “assigned” to the case looks at the appeal first and writes a decision or order, then the other two judges read the decision or order and agree or disagree with the first judge. In rare cases, such as when the Court consider whether to change its case law or the issue is extremely important, all fifteen judges of the Court will decide an appeal.

The Clerk’s Office of the Court of Appeals is open Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The office is closed on state holidays and during extremely bad weather. We will post a notice on the Court’s website, under the Announcements tab, when the Office is closed because of bad weather.

NOTE: When we refer to Rules in this Guide, we mean the Rules of the Court of Appeals of Georgia.

3. BASIC FILING PROCEDURES

A. FILING DOCUMENTS IN THE COURT OF APPEALS

All self-represented parties must submit documents in paper format. (Attorneys admitted to practice in this Court must file all documents electronically.) Any document submitted to the Court must be filed with the Clerk's office, be signed by the party or counsel, and contain a proper certificate of service showing that it was mailed to the opposing party or counsel. See the example of a certificate of service at the end of Form 2. Only file one original of any document. See Rule 6.

Documents may be mailed to the Court of Appeals, sent by express mail or courier service, or hand delivered. Fax filings are not accepted. Incarcerated parties (prisoners) who are representing themselves on appeal may file documents with prison officials for forwarding to the Clerk's office. See Rule 4.

The Clerk's office closes at 4:30 p.m., but the Court has a drop box for filings outside the Clerk's office on the ground floor of the 47 Trinity Avenue building in Atlanta. Although building hours may change, the Georgia Building Authority normally does not lock the building until 5:00 p.m.

Filings placed in the drop box will be removed before 8:15 a.m. the following day. Filings in the drop box will be deemed filed on the previous business day, as long as the documents are properly signed, have a proper certificate of service, . See Rule 4 (b). However, this rule does not apply to motions for reconsideration, which must be physically received in the clerk's office by the due date. See Rule 37 (b).

B. COSTS

The cost of filing a direct appeal or an application to appeal is $80 for criminal cases and $300 for civil cases. Application costs must be paid when the application is filed. If you file a direct appeal, you must pay the costs by the time you file your brief. Fees may be paid by cash, check, or money order. See Rule 5.

The Clerk cannot accept an application or a brief for filing without the filing fee unless (1) it is accompanied by an adequate pauper's affidavit, (2) the self-represented party is incarcerated, or (3) in represented cases, the attorney for the party was appointed due to the party's indigence. If the Court grants an application to appeal, another fee is not required when the subsequent direct appeal is docketed in this Court and the brief is filed.

If you believe that you are unable to pay the filing fee because you do not have the money, you must submit a sufficient notarized pauper's affidavit along with the notice of appeal or application, using the form on the Court's website. This form is not necessary if you are in jail or prison. See Rule 5. A sample pauper's affidavit form is attached. See Form 1.

If a case is dismissed before you file your brief, you still must pay the fee when the Court sends a bill.

C. DOCKETING A DIRECT APPEAL

To start a direct appeal, a notice of appeal must be filed in the proper court, usually the trial court, within the proper time limit, usually 30 days from the date the order or judgment being appealed was filed (but within 7 days for dispossessory orders). When the notice of appeal is filed, the trial court clerk will prepare a copy of the record, as requested in the notice. The trial court clerk will send the record and any transcripts to the Court of Appeals, along with a copy of the notice of appeal. The Court of Appeals will not docket a direct appeal until it receives the record from the trial court clerk in the proper format. See Rule 11. The final order of the trial court that is being appealed must be included in the record and must have been stamped “filed” by the trial court clerk. If the order does not contain the trial court clerk’s stamp, the Court of Appeals will return the notice of appeal and record to the trial court. See Rule 17.

Once the appeal is docketed, the Clerk of the Court of Appeals will send a notice to the parties or their attorneys that the appeal has been received and docketed. This “Docketing Notice” is very important because it contains the deadlines for filing briefs, requests to argue, and calendaring information. Because this notice is sent by U.S. mail, it is very important that you have provided the Court with a valid mailing address. The docketing notice should be read carefully. See Rule 13 and Section 5: Direct Appeals, for more detail about briefs.

You can check the status of your case online from the docket or see opinions of the Court on the Court’s website at <http://www.gaappeals.us/docket/index.php>. You can also review the record at the Clerk’s Office.

D. FILING AN APPLICATION TO APPEAL

Applications for discretionary appeal and applications for interlocutory appeal are filed directly with the Court of Appeals, not the trial court. The application contains your arguments about why the Court should grant your application, and you should include as exhibits any the necessary parts of the trial court record. A discretionary application must contain a copy of the signed order or judgment being appealed that was stamped “filed” by the trial court clerk. See Rule 31(c). An interlocutory application must contain a signed copy of the order or judgment being appealed that was stamped “filed” in the trial court and a stamped “filed” copy of a Certificate of Immediate Review from the trial court. See Section 6: Discretionary Applications, and Section 7: Interlocutory Appeals, for more detail.

4. APPEALING A CASE: AN OVERVIEW

An appeal is a review of what happened in the lower court to determine whether the judge made any mistakes of law and if so, whether you are entitled to relief. The Court of Appeals is bound by the record from the trial court. This means that parties cannot give testimony before the Court of Appeals or introduce new evidence that was not introduced in the trial court. The Court of Appeals decides an appeal based only on the trial court record, the parties' briefs, the law, and, sometimes, the parties' oral arguments.

There are three ways an appeal can come to the Court: direct appeals, granted discretionary applications, and granted interlocutory applications. Appeals can be made to the Court of Appeals or the Supreme Court of Georgia. Whether you should appeal to the Court of Appeals or the Supreme Court, the deadlines that apply, and the rules to follow, depend on the type of case you have.

It is important to follow the Georgia statutes regarding appellate procedure and the rules of the Court of Appeals. Failure to do so may result in your appeal being dismissed or denied, or your documents being returned to you. We strongly advise you to hire a lawyer to represent you in this complex process, if possible.

When deciding how to pursue an appeal, consider the following questions:

1. WHAT TYPE OF APPEAL DO I FILE: A DIRECT APPEAL, A DISCRETIONARY APPLICATION, OR AN INTERLOCUTORY APPLICATION?
 - a. Rulings that are directly appealable are set out in OCGA § 5-6-34 (a). (See Attachment F). If a ruling is directly appealable, a notice of appeal must be filed with the trial court within the proper time frame.
 - b. Rulings that require discretionary applications are set out in OCGA § 5-6-35 (a). (See Attachment G). Discretionary applications are filed directly with this Court within the proper time frame.
 - c. Interlocutory applications are required to appeal rulings before the case is over. A party who wants to appeal an order before the case is over must ask the trial judge to issue a certificate of immediate review and obtain that certificate within 10 days after the order was issued. See OCGA § 5-6-34 (b), Attachment F. Interlocutory applications are filed directly with the appellate court within the proper time frame.
2. WHERE DO I FILE THE APPEAL OR APPLICATION – IN THE COURT OF APPEALS OR THE SUPREME COURT?
 - a. The Court of Appeals has jurisdiction in most types of cases. The Supreme Court has jurisdiction in cases involving constitutional questions, murder, and habeas corpus. The jurisdiction of each court is set out in Ga. Const., Article VI, Section

VI, Paragraphs II & III, Ga. Const., Article VI, Section V, Paragraph III, and OCGA § 15-3-3.1 (see Attachment E).

- b. If you direct an appeal or application to the Court of Appeals but the Supreme Court has jurisdiction, the Court of Appeals will transfer it to the Supreme Court, and vice versa. You do not need to file your appeal or application in both courts.

3. WHAT IS THE DEADLINE FOR FILING?

- a. Usually, a notice of appeal for a direct appeal must be filed within 30 days of the entry of the order or judgment that is being appealed. The notice of appeal is filed in the trial court, not in the Court of Appeals. See OCGA § 5-6-38.
- b. Usually, a discretionary application must be filed within 30 days of the entry of the order or judgment being appealed. See OCGA § 5-6-35 (d).
- c. Usually, an interlocutory application must be filed within 10 days of the day the trial court issues a certificate of immediate review. See OCGA § 5-6-34 (b).
- d. Usually, to appeal a dispossessory order, the notice of appeal or application must be filed within 7 days of the entry of the order. See OCGA § 44-7-56.

4. WHAT HAPPENS AFTER I FILE A DIRECT APPEAL?

- a. After you file a notice of appeal in the trial court, the trial court clerk will prepare the record, certify it is accurate, and send it to the Court of Appeals for filing. The Court of Appeals will only docket the case when it receives the complete record. Note: the trial court clerk will not prepare the record until the appellant pays all copy costs to that court or is deemed a pauper by that court. Once the appeal is docketed, the parties will receive a docketing notice. See Rule 13.
- b. Upon receiving the docketing notice, the appellant must prepare and file a brief – usually within 20 days – explaining the arguments for the appeal. See Rules 23, 24, and 25.
- c. Then, the appellee (the party responding to the appeal) may file an appellee’s brief that responds to the arguments in the appellant’s brief. See Rule 23 (b). The State must file an appellee’s brief in a criminal case. In other cases, an appellee’s brief is optional.
- d. If the appellee files a brief, then the appellant may file a reply brief, but one is not required. This shorter brief simply replies specifically to arguments made in the appellee’s response brief. See Rule 23 (c). A reply brief is optional.

- e. A panel of three judges will review the case and make a decision. The Court of Appeals may dismiss the case, transfer the case, affirm the trial court decision, or vacate or reverse the trial court decision. (Note: there are circumstances where the number of judges deciding an appeal may change).

5. WHAT HAPPENS AFTER I FILE A DISCRETIONARY APPLICATION OR INTERLOCUTORY APPLICATION?

- a. Your application contains your arguments about why you think the Court should allow you to appeal. You must include a stamped “filed” copy of the Court’s order and whatever parts of the record you think the Court needs to read.
- b. The other side may file a response within 10 days, but is not required to do so.
- c. The Court of Appeals may dismiss, transfer, grant, or deny the application. If the application is granted, you have 10 days to file a notice of appeal in the trial court.

6. WHAT CAN I DO IF I DISAGREE WITH THE DECISION OF THE COURT OF APPEALS?

- a. You may file a motion for reconsideration asking the Court to consider its decision again. A motion for reconsideration must be physically received in the Clerk’s office within 10 days of the Court’s decision. The Court may reduce this time limit. See Rule 37.
- b. You may also ask the Supreme Court of Georgia to review this Court’s decision by filing a “notice of intention to petition for a writ of certiorari” in the Court of Appeals and a petition for a writ of certiorari in the Supreme Court. The notice must be filed within 10 days after a decision is issued, or if a motion for reconsideration is filed, within 10 days after an order ruling on the motion for reconsideration. A party may file the notice without first filing a motion for reconsideration. You must file the petition for writ of certiorari with the Supreme Court and the notice of intention in the Court of Appeals on the same day. See Rule 38.
- c. If you do not file a petition for writ of certiorari, the Court of Appeals will issue a document called a remittitur to the trial court, showing the final judgment of the Court of Appeals. Once the remittitur is issued, jurisdiction of the case returns to the trial court, and this Court no longer accepts any documents in your case. See Rule 39.

5. DIRECT APPEALS: DETAILS

A. CASES THAT ARE DIRECTLY APPEALABLE

The types of cases that may be appealed directly are set out in OCGA § 5-6-34 (a) (Attachment F), which provides as follows:

Appeals may be taken to the Supreme Court and the Court of Appeals from the following judgments and rulings of the superior courts, the constitutional city courts, and such other courts or tribunals from which appeals are authorized by the Constitution and laws of this state:

- (1) All final judgments, that is to say, where the case is no longer pending in the court below, except as provided in Code Section 5-6-35 [cases requiring an application to appeal];
- (2) All judgments involving applications for discharge in bail trover and contempt cases;
- (3) All judgments or orders directing that an accounting be had;
- (4) All judgments or orders granting or refusing applications for receivers or for interlocutory or final injunctions;
- (5) All judgments or orders granting or refusing applications for attachment against fraudulent debtors;
- (6) Any ruling on a motion which would be dispositive if granted with respect to a [criminal] defense that the action is barred by Code Section 16-11-173 [regarding weapons regulations and licensing];
- (7) All judgments or orders granting or refusing to grant mandamus or any other extraordinary remedy, except with respect to temporary restraining orders;
- (8) All judgments or orders refusing applications for dissolution of corporations created by the superior courts;
- (9) All judgments or orders sustaining motions to dismiss a caveat to the probate of a will;
- (10) All judgments or orders entered pursuant to subsection (c) of Code Section 17-10-6.2 [regarding punishment for sexual offenses];
- (11) All judgments or orders in child custody cases awarding, refusing to change, or modifying child custody or holding or declining to hold persons in contempt of such child custody judgment or orders;

(12) All judgments or orders entered pursuant to Code Section 35-3-37 [regarding review of someone's criminal record information]; and

(13) All judgments or orders entered pursuant to Code Section 9-11-11.1 [regarding dismissal of a complaint allegedly brought to inhibit freedom of speech].

If a party files an application when the party should have filed a direct appeal, the application will be granted and the party may file a notice of appeal (in the trial court) within 10 days of the date of the order granting the application. See OCGA § 5-6-35 (j), which is the statute that provides this relief.

B. FILING THE NOTICE OF APPEAL IN A DIRECT APPEAL

The notice of appeal is filed with the clerk of the trial court where the judgment or order being appealed from was entered. It is not filed with the Court of Appeals.

Generally, the notice of appeal must be filed within 30 days of the entry of the order or judgment that is being appealed. OCGA § 5-6-38. Generally, to appeal a dispossessory order, the notice of appeal must be filed within 7 days of the entry of the order. OCGA § 44-7-56.

The date of the entry of the order or judgment is the date the order or judgment was filed and clocked in by the trial court clerk (this may be different from the date under the judge's signature line).

Under OCGA § 5-6-37, the notice of appeal filed with the trial court must contain:

- (1) The title and lower court docket number of the case;
- (2) The name, complete address, and phone number of the appellant, or the name, address, email, and bar number of appellant's attorney, if any;
- (3) A short statement and the date of the judgment, ruling, or order the appellant wants to appeal;
- (4) The name of the court appealed to (the Court of Appeals of Georgia or the Supreme Court of Georgia);
- (5) A designation of what portions of the record are to be omitted from (left out of) the trial court record on appeal, if any;
- (6) Whether or not transcripts of trials or hearings will be included;
- (7) A short statement of why the Court of Appeals has jurisdiction rather than the Supreme Court; and

- (8) A brief statement of the offense and the sentence if the appeal is from a judgment of conviction in a criminal case.
- (9) The notice of appeal must include a proper certificate of service. The certificate of service must state that the opposing party or attorney was served with a copy by U.S. Mail or in person, and must contain the complete address of all opposing parties or attorneys. Without these complete addresses, the Court will be unable to send the docketing notices, and it will return the notice of appeal and record to the trial court.

The notice of appeal must also be signed by the appellant if self-represented, or by the attorney, if any, and must include the appellant's complete address and telephone number. If the appellant requests a transcript, he or she must communicate with the lower court clerk and court reporter to handle the preparation and filing of that transcript. See Rule 17. Typically, the appellant must pay the cost of preparing the transcript to the lower court clerk.

C. BRIEFS

1) The Appellant's Brief

As the appellant, you make your argument in your written brief. The brief explains what judgments or orders are being appealed, why the trial court made a legal mistake in making those judgments or orders, and what the appellant wants the Court of Appeals to do if it agrees that the trial court made a mistake. See Rule 25 (a).

The appellant must file a brief – one original only (no copies) – with the Court of Appeals within 20 days of the docketing date, which is included in the docketing notice the Court sends you. If you don't file a timely brief, the court will likely dismiss your appeal and possibly hold you in contempt of court. You must file a brief in each case that is docketed, even if multiple appeals relate to the same lower court case. See Rule 23 (a).

The brief must follow the rules of the Court of Appeals and be served via U.S. Mail or in person upon opposing counsel or parties. A proper certificate of service must be attached to the brief or the brief will be rejected by the Court and returned to the party. A returned brief does not toll (delay or extend) the time for submitting a brief.

The appellant may use only the information in the appellate record and transcripts to prepare the statement of facts. For every statement of fact there should be a citation or reference to a page in the record or transcript that supports that factual statement. See Rule 25 (a). Do not attach documents or exhibits to the brief, or the Court will reject it and send it back. See Rule 24 (g).

Self-represented parties must file paper copies of their briefs, which are limited to 30 pages in civil cases and 50 pages in criminal cases (attorneys, who file electronically, are limited by word counts). Tables of contents, tables of citations, cover sheets, and certificates of service do not count toward the page or word count limit. See Rule 24.

The appellant's brief should contain the following information (see Rules 24 and 25, Form 3):

- (1) Table of contents with page references to the sections of the brief;
- (2) Table of authorities with page references to where cases, statutes, and other authorities are cited;
- (3) Part One of the main text addresses the facts of the dispute and should include a statement of the proceedings in the trial court, the relevant facts of the case with citations to the record or transcript, and the method by which each listed error was preserved in the trial court for consideration on appeal;
- (4) Part Two contains the enumerations (listing) of the errors made by the trial court;
- (5) Part Three contains the applicable standard of review, the argument for why the trial court was wrong, and citations to cases, statutes, and other legal authorities supporting the argument and appropriate standard of review; and
- (6) A dated, signed certificate of service stating that the appellant served the opposing party with a copy of the brief by U.S. mail or in person, and includes the other side's complete address.

For an additional checklist for the appellant's brief and a sample appellant's brief, see Attachment A and Form 3 at the end of this guide.

2) The Appellee's Brief

The appellee has 40 days from the docketing date or 20 days after the appellant's brief is filed, whichever is later, to file his or her brief. Only the State in a criminal case is required to file an appellee's brief. The appellee must file one original of this brief for each appeal. See Rule 23 (b), Form 4.

The appellee's brief responds to the issues raised by the appellant, showing why the appellant's arguments are incorrect and providing support for the trial court's decision. If the appellee does not agree with the appellant's statement of facts, he or she should include the facts important to the case, and cite to the record or transcripts. The appellee's brief has the same page-count limitations as the appellant's brief. See Rule 24 (f).

The appellee's brief must include (see Rules 24 and 25):

- (1) Table of contents with page references to the sections of the brief;
- (2) Table of authorities with page references to where cases, statutes, and other authorities are cited;

- (3) Part One of the main text should focus on any important facts in the appellant's brief that are wrong or incomplete, citing to the record for each fact presented. It should also include and cite to any important facts that the appellant left out, and refer to any additional parts of the record that are important; and
- (4) Part Two responds separately to each of the appellant's enumerations of error, including citations to authorities that support the appellee's arguments. If the appellant stated the wrong standard of review, the appellee should include the correct standard in Part Two.
- (5) A dated, signed certificate of service stating that the appellee served the opposing party with a copy of the brief by U.S. mail or in person, including the other side's complete address.

An additional checklist for the appellee's brief and a sample appellee's brief is included at the end of this guide. See Attachment B; Form 4.

3) The Appellant's Reply Brief

The appellant has 20 days after the appellee filed his or her brief to file a reply brief, but reply briefs are not required. The reply brief responds to the arguments made by the appellee, showing how they do not overcome the arguments made in the appellant's initial brief. Do not raise any new issues in the reply brief. The reply brief is limited to 15 pages for self-represented parties. See Rules 23 (c) and 24 (f).

6. DISCRETIONARY APPLICATIONS: DETAILS

A. CASES THAT REQUIRE A DISCRETIONARY APPLICATION

A discretionary application asks the Court of Appeals to allow an appellant to file an appeal. Some cases can be directly appealed without an application, but under OCGA § 5-6-35 (a) (See Attachment 6), an appeal must be brought by discretionary application in the following types of cases:

- (1) Appeals from decisions of the superior courts reviewing decisions of the State Board of Workers' Compensation, the State Board of Education, auditors, state and local administrative agencies, and lower courts by certiorari or de novo proceedings. This provision does not apply to decisions of the Public Service Commission and probate courts, or to cases involving ad valorem taxes and condemnations;
- (2) Appeals from judgments or orders in divorce, alimony, and other domestic relations cases including, but not limited to, granting or refusing a divorce or temporary or permanent alimony, or holding or declining to hold parties in contempt of an alimony judgment or order;
- (3) Appeals from cases involving distress or dispossessory warrants in which the only issue to be resolved is the amount of rent due and that amount is $2,500.00 or less;
- (4) Appeals from cases involving garnishment or attachment, except as provided in paragraph (5) of subsection (a) of Code Section 5-6-34 [judgments or orders granting or refusing applications for attachment against fraudulent debtors];
- (5) Appeals from orders revoking probation;
- (5.1) Appeals from decisions of superior courts reviewing decisions of the Sexual Offender Registration Review Board;
- (5.2) Appeals from decisions of superior courts granting or denying petitions for release pursuant to Code Section 42-1-19 [petitions for release from sexual offender registration requirements];
- (6) Appeals in all actions for damages in which the judgment is $10,000.00 or less;
- (7) Appeals, when separate from an original appeal, from the denial of an extraordinary motion for new trial;
- (8) Appeals from orders under subsection (d) of Code Section 9-11-60 denying a motion to set aside a judgment or under subsection (e) of Code Section 9-11-60 denying relief upon a complaint in equity to set aside a judgment;

- (9) Appeals from orders granting or denying temporary restraining orders;
- (10) Appeals from awards of attorney's fees or expenses of litigation under Code Section 9-15-14;
- (11) Appeals from decisions of the state courts reviewing decisions of the magistrate courts by de novo proceedings so long as the subject matter is not otherwise subject to a right of direct appeal;
- (12) Appeals from orders terminating parental rights; and
- (13) Appeals from civil actions filed by prisoners under Code Section 42-12-8.

If a party files a direct appeal but should have filed an application, the direct appeal will be dismissed for lack of jurisdiction.

B. FILING THE DISCRETIONARY APPLICATION

Unlike the notice of appeal filed in the trial court on a direct appeal, discretionary applications are filed directly with the Court of Appeals. A discretionary application must be filed within 30 days (or 7 days in a dispossessory action) from the stamped "filed" date of the trial court's signed order or judgment being appealed. See OCGA § 5-6-35 (d). The application must contain a copy of the signed order or judgment being appealed that was stamped "filed" in the trial court. See Rule 31(c). If the application does not contain this order, it will be returned and the time limit for filing will continue to run. An improper filing does not toll (delay or stop) the time for filing.

Applications and responses to applications are limited to 30 pages in civil cases and 50 pages in criminal cases for self-represented parties, who must submit their documents on paper (attorneys, who file electronically, are limited by word counts). Exhibits, which include documents filed with the trial court and portions of the record, do not count toward this limit. See Rule 31 (g)(2)(i). The application must include a proper certificate of service showing that the opposing counsel or party received a copy by U.S. mail or in person and include the full address of the opposing party or attorney. See Rule 6; example in Form 2.

A discretionary application should include as exhibits whatever portions of the record the applicant thinks the Court of Appeals should review to decide whether the trial court likely made a legal mistake. The application must contain an index of the exhibits, which must be tabbed. See Rule 31 (g)(2)(ii).

The respondent (opposing party) has 10 days from the date a discretionary application is filed to file a response, but one is not required. See Rule 31 (j).

The following items must be included in a discretionary application (see OCGA and 5-6-35 and Rule 31):

- (1) A cover page that shows:
 - (a) The style of the case (the case name, listing the parties' names as applicant(s) vs. respondent(s));
 - (b) The name and county of the originating trial court and the trial court case number;
 - (c) A blank line for entry of the Court of Appeals docket number; and
 - (d) The title of the application;
- (2) An explanation of why the Court of Appeals rather than the Supreme Court has jurisdiction;
- (3) A short statement of the facts of the case and trial court proceedings;
- (4) An argument stating why the Court of Appeals should grant the discretionary application and allow an appeal to go forward. Include citations to the trial court pleadings and transcripts in the exhibits, and to the relevant law supporting your argument;
- (5) Your signature and full postal address and telephone number;
- (6) A signed certificate of service stating that a copy of the application and exhibits was sent to the opposing party or attorney by U.S. mail or in person, including the full name and postal address of the opposing party or attorney; and
- (7) Tabbed and indexed exhibits including:
 - (a) A stamped "filed" copy of the trial court's order being appealed that includes the trial court judge's signature; and
 - (b) A copy of any petition or motion that led directly to the order being appealed, a copy of any responses to that petition or motion, and copies of other relevant pleadings filed in the trial court (as necessary to show why the Court of Appeals should grant the application).

C. RULING ON THE APPLICATION

Under Rule 31 (6), discretionary applications are only granted when:

- (1) Reversible error appears to exist in the lower court;
- (2) The establishment of a precedent (a rule to be used in future similar cases) is desirable;
- (3) Further development of the common law, particularly in divorce cases, is desirable; or

- (4) The application is for leave to appeal a judgment and decree of divorce that is final under OCGA § 5-6-34 (a) (1), timely under OCGA § 5-6-35 (d), and has possible merit.

The Court of Appeals is required to issue an order within 30 days of the docketing of a discretionary application. The Court may grant, deny, dismiss, or transfer the application.

If the Court grants the application, the appellant has 10 days from the date of the order granting the application to file a notice of appeal in the trial court. The case will then proceed as a direct appeal.

7. INTERLOCUTORY APPLICATIONS

Interlocutory applications are appeals from orders in the trial court that do not end or dispose of the case. This means that, while a specific issue that the trial court ruled on is being appealed, the case remains pending in the trial court. Interlocutory applications are rarely used by self-represented parties. They are most often used by attorneys in more complex cases.

Except in very rare circumstances, an interlocutory application may only be filed if the trial court grants a certificate of immediate review within 10 days of the order the applicant wants to appeal. See OCGA § 5-6-34 (b). The decision of whether to grant the certificate is left solely to the trial court. This decision is not appealable. If the trial court grants a certificate, the interlocutory application must then be filed with the Court of Appeals within 10 days of the date the trial court's certificate was filed with the clerk of the trial court. Failure to meet either deadline will most likely result in the application's dismissal.

An interlocutory application must contain both a signed copy of the order or judgment being appealed that is stamped "filed" in the trial court and a stamped "filed" copy of the certificate of immediate review. Application briefs are limited to 30 pages in civil cases and 50 pages in criminal cases for self-represented parties who must file paper documents (attorneys who file electronically are limited by word counts). Exhibits, which include parts of the trial court record, do not count toward this page limit. The party must file one original with the Clerk's office via mail or hand delivery. See Rule 30.

The respondent has 10 days from the date of the filing of the interlocutory application to file a response, but one is not required.

The Court of Appeals will grant, deny, transfer, or dismiss the interlocutory application within 45 days of the filing date of the application. The Court will only grant an interlocutory application when (see Rule 30 (b)):

- (1) The issue to be decided appears to be dispositive of (will determine the result of) the case;

- (2) The order appears erroneous (wrong) and will probably cause a substantial error at trial or will adversely affect the rights of the appealing party until entry of final judgment; or
- (3) The establishment of precedent (a rule to be used in future cases) is desirable.

In addition to a statement of facts and proceedings and an argument about why the trial court made a mistake and why the court should grant the application, the applicant must include the following items when submitting an application for interlocutory appeal, tabbed and indexed: (see Rule 30; Form 2):

- (1) An explanation of why the Court of Appeals of Georgia rather than the Supreme Court of Georgia has jurisdiction;
- (2) A stamped “filed” copy of the trial court’s order to be appealed that includes the trial court judge’s signature;
- (3) A stamped “filed” copy of the certificate of immediate review that includes the trial court judge’s signature;
- (4) A copy of any petition or motion and responses to it that led directly to the judgment or order being appealed;
- (5) Relevant portions of the record needed to show why the Court should grant the application; and
- (6) A signed certificate of service stating that a copy of the application and exhibits was sent to the opposing party or attorney by U.S. mail or in person, and including the complete name and postal address of that party or attorney.

8. MOTIONS

A motion is a written request asking this Court to take some action or to issue a specific ruling or order. The written motion is the only way to make this kind of request. Each motion must be a separate document and cannot be filed in the body of a brief. See Rule 41. Do not put two motions in one document, or your “compound” or “joint motion” will be returned to you. There is no deadline for the Court to decide a motion. Motions should be filed as soon as possible. The most common motions are for an extension of time to file a brief and for reconsideration of a decision (See Forms 5-7).

A. MOTION FOR EXTENSION OF TIME TO FILE A BRIEF

Motions to ask the court for more time to file your brief may be filed with the Court and must be submitted on or before the deadline for filing the brief. The motion must explain why you want more time and that you have made a good faith (honest and diligent) effort to meet the initial deadline. The motion should state how many extra days you want (usually less than 30 days), and, if possible, whether the other party objects to an extension. See Rule 16 and Form 5.

B. MOTION TO SUPPLEMENT THE RECORD

You may file a motion to supplement or add to the appellate record with material that was filed in the trial court but left out of the appellate record. You must describe the material you want to add, its title, and the date it was filed in the trial court. The supplemental material should not be attached to the motion. This court will not grant a motion to add material that was not filed in the trial court. See Rule 41 (c) and Form 7.

C. REQUEST TO ARGUE

If you want to argue your case in person to the three judges assigned to it, you must file a request for oral argument within 20 days of the docketing notice. The motion must explain why oral argument would benefit the Court. The Court only grants oral argument in a small number of cases.

The Court will send each party an order granting or denying the oral argument request. If the Court grants oral argument, both sides may argue and if you change your mind and do not want to argue in person, you must notify the Court. The other side may still argue, even if you do not. Each party generally has 15 minutes to present an argument to the Court. The Court does not hear oral arguments for applications or motions. See Rule 28, Form 8.

D. MOTION FOR RECONSIDERATION

A motion for reconsideration is a request for this Court to change its decision on an order or opinion. Motions for reconsideration must be physically received in the Clerk’s office within 10 days of the date the order or opinion was issued, unless the Court sets a shorter time period. See Rule 37 (b). Motions for reconsideration must be formatted according to Rule 24. See Form 6.

A motion for reconsideration will be granted only when the Court either (1) overlooked an important fact in the record, a statute, or an earlier case that controls the outcome and would require a different judgment, or (2) erroneously construed or misapplied a law or statute. See Rule 37 (e). The Court will not accept for filing a second motion for reconsideration unless you first file and are granted a motion asking the Court to allow you to file one. See Rule 37 (d).

10. GLOSSARY

The following are definitions of common terms used during the appellate process. They are useful to understand the appellate process and how to prepare an appeal.

APPEAL – A review by an appellate court (such as the Court of Appeals of Georgia or the Georgia Supreme Court) of what happened in the trial court to determine whether any mistakes of law occurred, and, if so, whether the appealing party is entitled to have the judgment of the trial court reversed, vacated, remanded (sent back to the trial court for further proceedings), or otherwise changed.

APPELLANT – The party who appeals from the trial court’s decision, usually, the “losing” party in the trial court.

APPELLEE – The party against whom an appeal is filed, who responds to the appeal and is usually the “winning” party in the trial court.

APPELLANT’S BRIEF – The document that the appellant files in this Court to explain why the lower court made the wrong decision. This is the first brief sent to the Court following the docketing notice.

APPELLEE’S BRIEF – The document that the appellee files in this Court responding to the appellant’s brief, generally explaining why the lower court’s decision was right and arguing that this Court should uphold that decision.

BRIEF – A written statement that explains the arguments of a party to an appeal.

CERTIFICATE OF IMMEDIATE REVIEW – A document signed by the trial judge stating that the order, decision, or judgment someone wants to appeal is so important that the appellate court should review it immediately, before the case ends. A certificate of immediate review is required to file an interlocutory application.

CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE – A written statement by a party that he or she has served the opposing party or attorney by U.S. mail or in person with a copy of a document before filing it with the Court, in accordance with Rule 6. It must be dated and signed by the party filing it, and it must contain the name and complete mailing address of the opposing party or attorney. The Court will return any document submitted for filing if it does not include a proper certificate of service.

CITATION – A reference to legal authority, which includes cases that have already been decided by a court (“case law”), statutes, and parts of the state and federal constitutions. These references should be used to support arguments explaining a party’s position. A citation can also be to documents or transcripts in the record.

CIVIL CASE – A case involving a dispute between two or more parties in which a plaintiff is asking the Court to grant some form of relief due to an injury or harm suffered because of the actions of the defendant, as opposed to a criminal case between the State and a defendant.

COURT OF APPEALS – The intermediate appeals court in Georgia. This Court hears most appeals of cases that have been decided in the lower trial courts, and its decisions may be reviewed by the Georgia Supreme Court.

DECISION – The written ruling of the Court in an appeal. Some cases are decided by an opinion and some are decided by an order.

DEFENDANT – The party being sued or charged with a crime.

DISCRETIONARY APPLICATION – In cases where a party does not have the right to a direct (or automatic) appeal, a party must first obtain the appellate court’s permission to file an appeal by filing an application. The Court either grants the application and the party files a notice of appeal in the trial court, or the appellate court denies it, and the case cannot be appealed.

DOCKET – An organized, written list of proceedings in a case, which includes the titles of all the documents filed with the clerk of court and the dates they were filed.

DOCKETING NOTICE – A document sent by the Court of Appeals to the parties when the Court docket, or files, an appeal from a lower court after it receives a copy of the record. The notice includes the due dates of the parties’ briefs and oral argument requests.

ENUMERATION OF ERRORS – The portion of the appellant’s brief that specifically states exactly what the trial court did wrong and states where in the record or transcript each error occurred. The enumerations should be Part Two of the appellant’s brief and are usually one sentence long. They do not include the argument about the error, which is contained in Part Three of the brief.

FILE STAMP – The official stamp of a clerk’s office that shows the date when the document was recorded as filed with the clerk. This date may be different from the date the document was signed, and is the date that controls any due date that follows it.

INDIGENT – Someone who is unable to pay the costs and fees related to a case due to financial hardship.

INTERLOCUTORY APPLICATION – Generally, a case must have been completely finished in the lower court before a party may file an appeal. An interlocutory application is a request by a party to appeal an order before the end of a case. Generally, the trial court must grant the party a certificate of immediate review before the application is filed. See Rule 30.

JUDGMENT OR ORDER – A ruling made by the trial court judge, usually at the end of a case. It must be in writing and must be “entered” or filed with the trial court clerk before the Court of Appeals has jurisdiction to consider an appeal from it. Sometimes an order issued before the case is over can be appealed if the Court grants an interlocutory application.

JURISDICTION – The power or authority given by the Georgia Constitution and laws to hear and resolve particular types of cases or appeals. For the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court of Georgia and the Court of Appeals of Georgia, see Art. VI, Sec. V, Para. III and Art. VI, Sec. VI, Para. II through V of the 1983 State Constitution, and OCGA § 15-3-3.1.

LITIGANTS – The parties who are involved in a lawsuit.

MOTION – A written request asking the Court to take some action or issue a specific ruling or order.

MOTION FOR RECONSIDERATION – A motion asking the Court to change its mind in one of its orders or opinions. Motions for reconsideration must be physically received by the Court by 4:30 p.m. by the tenth day after the order or opinion was issued. The Court may shorten this time period. See Rule 37.

MOVANT – The party who asks the Court to do something by filing a motion.

NOTICE OF APPEAL – The document that must be filed in the trial court to start a direct appeal. In most cases, it must be filed within 30 days of the entry of the order or judgment being appealed. In dispossessory cases, the notice of appeal must be filed within 7 days.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO PETITION FOR WRIT OF CERTIORARI – A document filed with the Court of Appeals to alert it that a party intends to apply for a writ of certiorari with the Supreme Court of Georgia, meaning the party intends to ask the Supreme Court to review the decision of the Court of Appeals. See Form 4.

OPINION – The written ruling of the Court in an appeal, also called the decision.

ORAL ARGUMENT – The in-person presentation of a party's position on appeal to a panel of judges. A party must ask for oral argument, and few requests are granted.

PAUPER'S AFFIDAVIT (Affidavit of Indigence) – A notarized, signed document stating that the person signing it is financially unable to pay the filing fee or other costs of bringing an appeal. Usually, the Court will not make a party pay the filing fee if he or she files a pauper's affidavit. If the record on appeal already contains evidence of indigence, it is not necessary to file a pauper's affidavit. See Form 1 and Rule 5.

PLAINTIFF – A party who starts a lawsuit by filing a complaint.

PRECEDENT – A previously decided case that is binding on future cases that have similar facts and legal issues. Generally, the Court of Appeals is only bound by published cases from its own court, the Georgia Supreme Court, and the U.S. Supreme Court.

PRO SE – A party in a case who is not represented by an attorney but is acting on his or her own behalf; also self-represented.

RECORD – A collection of documents filed in the trial court, including transcripts of depositions, hearings, and trial. In a notice of appeal, a party must state which documents should be omitted (left out) of the record to be prepared for review by the Court of Appeals.

REMITTITUR – A document issued by the Court of Appeals to the trial court that returns jurisdiction to that court and shows the final judgment of the Court of Appeals, either reversing, affirming, or vacating the trial court's decision, and possibly remanding the case for further proceedings.

REPLY BRIEF – A document that the appellant may file in response to the appellee's brief. A reply brief explains why the arguments made in the appellee's brief are wrong, but cannot include new arguments or errors. Filing a reply brief is not required, but is optional.

RESPONDENT – The party opposing an application or motion.

STATE ATTORNEY – A lawyer representing the interests of the state in a legal proceeding, typically as a prosecutor in a criminal case.

SUPREME COURT OF GEORGIA – The highest court in the State of Georgia. If a party is unhappy with a decision of the Court of Appeals, the party may submit a “petition for certiorari” asking the Supreme Court to review the Court of Appeals’ decision.

TABLE OF AUTHORITIES – A listing of all the cases, statutes, and other legal references included in a brief to support a party’s arguments.

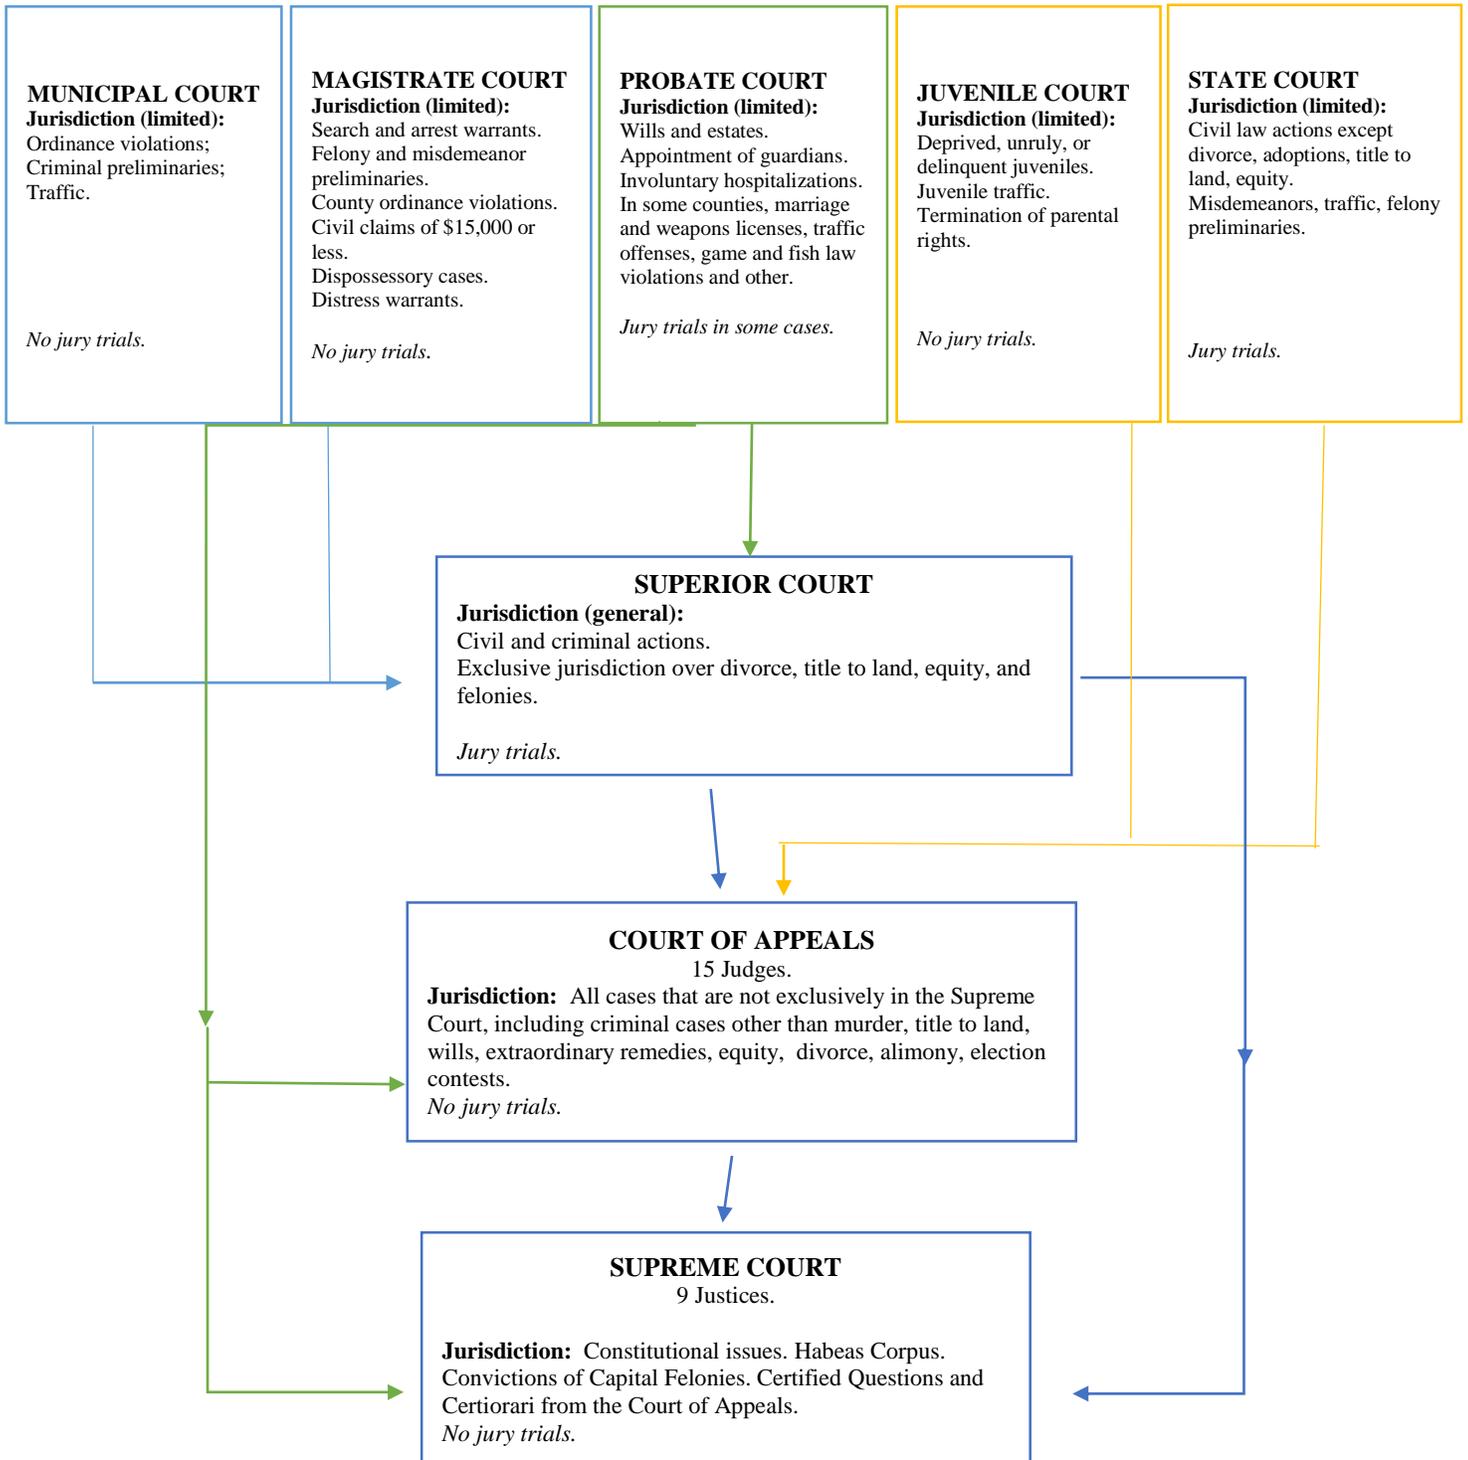

TRANSCRIPT – A written document that includes everything that was said during a hearing, trial, or deposition. A transcript may also contain any exhibits admitted at the hearing or trial. A transcript must be certified by the court reporter and the clerk of the trial court, who sends a copy of it to the appellate court as part of the record of a case. A transcript must be certified and sent by the trial court clerk, not by a party, attorney, or court reporter.

TRIAL COURT – Also called the lower court, where some civil and criminal cases start. Trial courts may also hear appeals or transfers from magistrate court, probate court, or administrative courts. Decisions made by trial courts may be appealed by granted application or directly to the Court of Appeals or Supreme Court of Georgia, depending on which appellate court has jurisdiction over the subject matter.

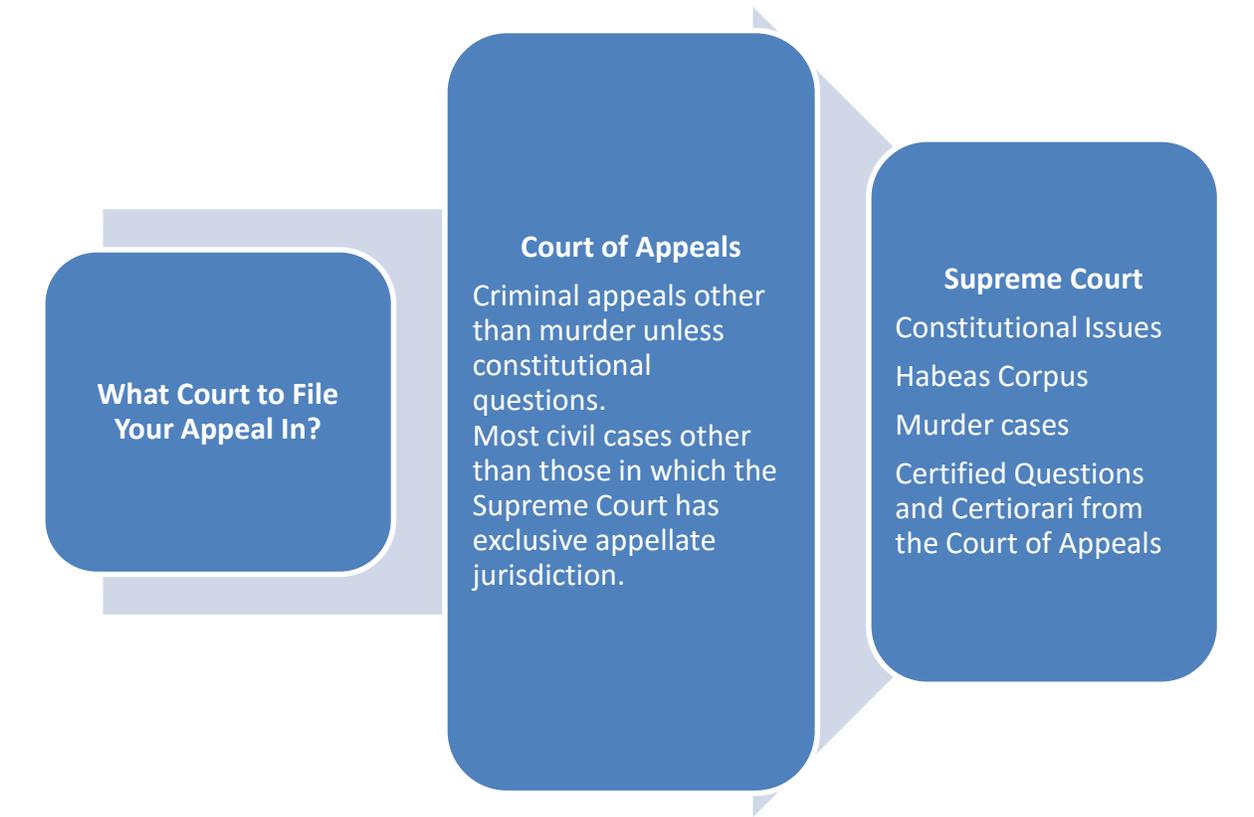

11. THE GEORGIA COURT SYSTEM

Below is a chart that outlines the basic structure of the court system in Georgia and the jurisdiction of each court. Check for legislative changes as the information below is based upon legislation effective on January 1, 2017.

APPELLATE COURT JURISDICTION CHART

The chart below and the most recent legislation may help you determine whether to appeal to the Georgia Supreme Court or the Georgia Court of Appeals.

12. FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS REGARDING FILING APPEALS IN THE COURT OF APPEALS OF GEORGIA

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

WHAT IS AN APPEAL? An appeal is the process by which a party asks the appellate court to change a lower court's decision. The Court of Appeals of Georgia will review a lower court's decision to determine whether any mistakes occurred, and, if so, whether the party who filed the appeal is entitled to have the judgment of the trial court reversed, vacated, remanded (sent back to the trial court for further proceedings), or otherwise changed.

WHAT IS A LOWER COURT JUDGMENT OR ORDER?

A judgment or order is a ruling made by a lower court judge. A judgment is often issued at the end of a case and usually favors one of the parties. The judgment must be written and filed with the trial court clerk to be appealable, and may explain why the court made the decision it did.

WHAT ORDERS OR JUDGMENTS MAY BE APPEALED?

Generally, any final order of a trial court may be directly appealed or the losing party may apply for permission to file an appeal. See OCGA §§ 5-6-34, 5-6-35. An order that does not end the case is an interlocutory order. To appeal an interlocutory order, a party must obtain a Certificate of Immediate Review from the trial court and request permission to appeal by following the interlocutory application process.

WHO CAN APPEAL?

A party who is dissatisfied with a lower-court decision or ruling may have a right to appeal. A party may appeal with or without representation by an attorney. However, we strongly encourage parties to obtain a lawyer to represent them in this complicated process. The Court gives no special treatment to parties who represent themselves.

WHAT IS THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN A CRIMINAL AND A CIVIL CASE?

In criminal cases, the State has charged the defendant with violating a criminal law. A state prosecutor, usually a lawyer from the office of the District Attorney or Solicitor in the county where the crime was allegedly committed initiates a criminal proceeding by filing charges against the defendant.

In civil cases, two or more parties disagree with each other over things like divorces, contracts, or injuries, and one party files a lawsuit against the other party so a judge or a jury can decide who is right and whether one party owes money to the other.

Criminal and civil cases are basically handled the same way during the appeal process.

HOW MUCH DOES IT COST TO APPEAL?

A direct appeal or an application costs $80 for criminal cases and $300 for civil cases. In a direct appeal, costs must be paid by the date the appellant files his or her brief. If a case is dismissed before the appellant's brief is filed, the appellant must still pay the filing fee. Costs are the same for an application, but must be paid when the application is filed. The Clerk of the Court is prohibited by law from filing an application without the required filing fee unless (1) the self-represented applicant or appellant is in jail or prison at the time, (2) the applicant or appellant files a sufficient pauper's affidavit, or (3) counsel for the applicant or appellant shows that he or she has been appointed to represent that party. See Rule 5. If an application is granted, the appellant is not required to pay another fee to file his or her brief in the subsequent appeal. OCGA § 5-6-4.

CAN THE COURT OF APPEALS APPOINT AN ATTORNEY TO REPRESENT ME?

No. Only the trial court can appoint attorneys to financially challenged parties under some circumstances. This Court cannot appoint attorneys.

CAN THE COURT OR THE CLERK'S OFFICE RECOMMEND A LAWYER TO REPRESENT ME IN MY APPEAL?

No. Neither the Court nor the Clerk's Office is permitted to refer parties to specific lawyers. However, the State Bar of Georgia has a referral service that can be found online at: <http://www.gabar.org/forthepublic/findalawyer.cfm>. The State Bar of Georgia can also be reached by phone at: (404) 527-8700 or (800) 334-6865.

WHERE ARE THE RULES FOR FILING AN APPEAL?

Rules for filing an appeal in Georgia can be found on the Court's website at: <http://www.gaappeals.us/rules2/index.php>.

IF A PARTY WANTS TO APPEAL A TRIAL COURT'S DECISION, WHAT IS THE FIRST THING THEY SHOULD DO?

The best way to begin an appeals process is to hire an attorney for representation. If you cannot hire a lawyer, this guide will provide general information on how to file an appeal. Parties should also review all of the Court's rules and any Georgia statutes related to appeals.

IF A MOTION TO RECONSIDER OR OTHER POST-JUDGMENT MOTION IS FILED IN THE LOWER COURT, WHEN IS THE NOTICE FOR APPEAL DUE?

Typically, parties are required to file their notice of appeal within thirty days of the trial court's decision being filed. The filing of a motion for reconsideration in the trial court does not toll (extend) the deadline for filing a notice of appeal.

WHAT IS THE RECORD ON APPEAL?

The record is a compilation of the pleadings, other documents, and evidence filed in the trial court in a case, including any motions, decisions, orders, judgments, and transcripts of trials, hearings, and depositions. In a notice of appeal is filed, the appealing party must designate which portions of the trial court record should be omitted (left out) of the record sent to the appellate court. The lower court clerk typically will not begin preparing the record until the appealing party pays the copying costs. The Court of Appeals accepts only lower-court records that have been certified by the lower court clerk. Parties may not file evidence of any kind directly with the Court of Appeals.

WHAT IS THE DOCKETING NOTICE?

Once the Court receives the record from the trial court, the Court will docket the appeal, assign a case number, and send a notice to the parties that tells them the appeal has been docketed, when their briefs are due, and other calendaring information. The appellant will then need to prepare and file his or her brief with the Court. See Rule 13.

WHAT IS A BRIEF?

A brief is a written statement that explains the argument of a party to an appeal. Each party has a chance to submit a brief explaining the merits of his or her argument to the Court. The appellant is required to file a brief or risk losing the appeal for that reason, and files his or her brief first. The appellee may respond by filing his or her own brief, but only the State is required to file a brief in all criminal cases in which it is the appellee.

WHEN TO FILE THE BRIEF?

The appellant's brief must be filed within twenty days after the appeal is docketed. The appellee must file his or her brief within forty days after the appeal is docketed or twenty days after the appellant's brief has been filed, whichever is later. See Rule 23.

WHAT TO DO IF A BRIEF CANNOT BE FILED WITHIN THE TIME LIMIT?

A party who cannot file a brief in time may file a motion asking this Court for more time to file it. The party explains in the motion why extra time is needed to file the brief and asks for a specific date or length of time to file the brief. See Rule 16. The motion must be filed in no later than the date the brief is due.

WHO DECIDES A COURT OF APPEALS CASE?

After the case is docketed in the Court, the case is assigned to a panel of three judges. This panel will decide whether the decision of the trial court should be affirmed (meaning the trial court decision stands as it is), reversed, or remanded and sent back to the trial court for more proceedings.

CAN NEW EVIDENCE BE PRESENTED TO THE COURT OF APPEALS THAT WAS NOT INTRODUCED TO THE TRIAL COURT?

No. Parties to cases on appeal are not allowed to introduce new evidence to the Court of Appeals that was not presented to the trial court. The Court will review only the documents in the record from the trial court.

DO PARTIES GET HEARINGS IN A COURT OF APPEALS CASE?

Unless expressly ordered by the Court, there are no mandatory hearings at the Court. However, parties may ask to present oral arguments before the judges' panel assigned to their case. See Rule 28.

HOW DO PARTIES KNOW WHAT DECISION WAS MADE BY THE COURT?

Once the judges' panel has come to a decision, the panel will issue a written decision in a document called an opinion and deliver the opinion to the parties in the appeal. The Court's opinion will explain how the facts of the case and the relevant law led the Court to make the decision it did.

WHEN ARE DOCUMENTS CONSIDERED FILED?

Documents are usually considered filed with the Court once they are received by the Clerk's office. Attorneys are required to file documents electronically. Documents from self-represented prisoners are considered filed on the postmark date of the envelope containing the document, or the Court may consider documents filed on the date they were submitted to prison officials for forwarding to the Court of Appeals if there is no postmark date on the envelope. Motions for Reconsideration are considered filed only when they are actually received in the Clerk's office. See Rule 4 (d).

WHAT IF DUE DATES FOR FILING DOCUMENTS FALL ON WEEKENDS OR HOLIDAYS?

If a due date falls on a weekend or holiday, the due date extends to the next business day. See Rule 3.

HOW DO I ASK THE COURT TO DO SOMETHING OR ASK THE COURT TO ISSUE AN ORDER?

A request to the Court to take action must be submitted in the form of a motion. Review Section 8 of this guide titled "Motions" for more direction.

HOW LONG WILL IT TAKE FOR THE COURT TO MAKE A DECISION?

All appeals are reviewed in the order in which they are filed with the Court. The Court of Appeals is required to decide cases by the end of the term following the term to which the case is docketed. Ga. Const. of 1983, Art. VI, Sec. 9, Par. 2. This time frame is generally six to eight months after a case is docketed.

WHAT SHOULD A PARTY DO IF THEY DO NOT LIKE A DECISION MADE BY THE COURT OF APPEALS?

A party who disagrees with the Court's decision has two options. First, the party can file a motion for reconsideration, asking the Court to review the appeal again. The Court must physically receive a motion for reconsideration by 4:30 p.m. on the tenth day after the Court issued its opinion. See Rule 37. The Court may shorten this deadline.

Second, a party disagreeing with the Court's decision may file a notice of intention to petition for certiorari. This document notifies the Court that the filing party intends to ask the Supreme Court of Georgia to hear the appeal. A party may still file this notice after they have filed a motion for reconsideration, but a motion for reconsiderations is not require before a party can file a notice of intention to petition the Supreme Court. The party must then actually file a petition in the Supreme Court and on the same day notify the Court of Appeals that it has done so. See Rule 38.

ATTACHMENT E: JURISDICTIONAL STATUTES AND CONSTITUTIONAL PROVISIONS

§ 15-3-3.1. Appellate jurisdiction of Court of Appeals (2017)

(a) Pursuant to Article VI, Section VI, Paragraph III of the Constitution of this state, the Court of Appeals rather than the Supreme Court shall have appellate jurisdiction in the following classes of cases:

- (1) Cases involving title to land;
- (2) All equity cases, except those cases concerning proceedings in which a sentence of death was imposed or could be imposed and those cases concerning the execution of a sentence of death;
- (3) All cases involving wills;
- (4) All cases involving extraordinary remedies, except those cases concerning proceedings in which a sentence of death was imposed or could be imposed and those cases concerning the execution of a sentence of death;
- (5) All divorce and alimony cases; and
- (6) All other cases not reserved to the Supreme Court or conferred on other courts.

(b) This Code section shall not otherwise affect the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court or the Court of Appeals.

Georgia Constitution Article VI, § V, Paragraph III. Jurisdiction of Court of Appeals; decisions binding

The Court of Appeals shall be a court of review and shall exercise appellate and certiorari jurisdiction in all cases not reserved to the Supreme Court or conferred on other courts by law. The decisions of the Court of Appeals insofar as not in conflict with those of the Supreme Court shall bind all courts except the Supreme Court as precedents.

Georgia Constitution Article VI, § VI, Paragraph II. Exclusive appellate jurisdiction of Supreme Court

The Supreme Court shall be a court of review and shall exercise exclusive appellate jurisdiction in the following cases:

- (1) All cases involving the construction of a treaty or of the Constitution of the State of Georgia or of the United States and all cases in which the constitutionality of a law, ordinance, or constitutional provision has been drawn in question; and
- (2) All cases of election contest.

Georgia Constitution Article VI, § VI, Paragraph III General appellate jurisdiction of Supreme Court

Unless otherwise provided by law, the Supreme Court shall have appellate jurisdiction of the following classes of cases:

- (1) Cases involving title to land;
- (2) All equity cases;
- (3) All cases involving wills;
- (4) All habeas corpus cases;
- (5) All cases involving extraordinary remedies;
- (6) All divorce and alimony cases;
- (7) All cases certified to it by the Court of Appeals; and
- (8) All cases in which a sentence of death was imposed or could be imposed.

Review of all cases shall be as provided by law.

ATTACHMENT F: OCGA § 5-6-34 (2017) JUDGMENTS/RULINGS DIRECTLY APPEALABLE

OCGA § 5-6-34 (2017). Judgments and rulings deemed directly appealable; procedure for review of judgments, orders, or decisions not subject to direct appeal; scope of review; hearings in criminal cases involving a capital offense for which death penalty is sought; appeals involving nonmonetary judgments in child custody cases.

(a) Appeals may be taken to the Supreme Court and the Court of Appeals from the following judgments and rulings of the superior courts, the constitutional city courts, and such other courts or tribunals from which appeals are authorized by the Constitution and laws of this state:

(1) All final judgments, that is to say, where the case is no longer pending in the court below, except as provided in Code Section 5-6-35;

(2) All judgments involving applications for discharge in bail trover and contempt cases;

(3) All judgments or orders directing that an accounting be had;

(4) All judgments or orders granting or refusing applications for receivers or for interlocutory or final injunctions;

(5) All judgments or orders granting or refusing applications for attachment against fraudulent debtors;

(6) Any ruling on a motion which would be dispositive if granted with respect to a defense that the action is barred by Code Section 16-11-173;

(7) All judgments or orders granting or refusing to grant mandamus or any other extraordinary remedy, except with respect to temporary restraining orders;

(8) All judgments or orders refusing applications for dissolution of corporations created by the superior courts;

(9) All judgments or orders sustaining motions to dismiss a caveat to the probate of a will;

(10) All judgments or orders entered pursuant to subsection (c) of Code Section 17-10-6.2;

(11) All judgments or orders in child custody cases awarding, refusing to change, or modifying child custody or holding or declining to hold persons in contempt of such child custody judgment or orders;

(12) All judgments or orders entered pursuant to Code Section 35-3-37; and

(13) All judgments or orders entered pursuant to Code Section 9-11-11.1.

(b) Where the trial judge in rendering an order, decision, or judgment, not otherwise subject to direct appeal, including but not limited to the denial of a defendant's motion to recuse in a criminal case, certifies within ten days of entry thereof that the order, decision, or judgment is of such importance to the case that immediate review should be had, the Supreme Court or the Court of Appeals may thereupon, in their respective discretions, permit an appeal to be taken from the order, decision, or judgment if application is made thereto within ten days after such certificate is granted. The application shall be in the nature of a petition and shall set forth the need for such an appeal and the issue or issues involved therein. The applicant may, at his or her election, include copies of such parts of the record as he or she deems appropriate, but no certification of such copies by the clerk of the trial court shall be necessary. The application shall be filed with the clerk of the Supreme Court or the Court of Appeals and a copy of the application, together with a list of those parts of the record included with the application, shall be served upon the opposing party or parties in the case in the manner prescribed by Code Section 5-6-32, except that such service shall be perfected at or before the filing of the application. The opposing party or parties shall have ten days from the date on which the application is filed in which to file a response. The response may be accompanied by copies of the record in the same manner as is allowed with the application. The Supreme Court or the Court of Appeals shall issue an order granting or denying such an appeal within 45 days of the date on which the application was filed. Within ten days after an order is issued granting the appeal, the applicant, to secure a review of the issues, may file a notice of appeal as provided in Code Section 5-6-37. The notice of appeal shall act as a supersedeas as provided in Code Section 5-6-46 and the procedure thereafter shall be the same as in an appeal from a final judgment.

(c) In criminal cases involving a capital offense for which the death penalty is sought, a hearing shall be held as provided in Code Section 17-10-35.2 to determine if there shall be a review of pretrial proceedings by the Supreme Court prior to a trial before a jury. Review of pretrial proceedings, if ordered by the trial court, shall be exclusively as provided by Code Section 17-10-35.1 and no certificate of immediate review shall be necessary.

(d) Where an appeal is taken under any provision of subsection (a), (b), or (c) of this Code section, all judgments, rulings, or orders rendered in the case which are raised on appeal and which may affect the proceedings below shall be reviewed and determined by the appellate court, without regard to the appealability of the judgment, ruling, or order standing alone and without regard to whether the judgment, ruling, or order appealed from was final or was appealable by some other express provision of law contained in this Code section, or elsewhere. For purposes of review by the appellate court, one or more judgments, rulings, or orders by the trial court held to be erroneous on appeal shall not be deemed to have rendered all subsequent proceedings nugatory; but the appellate court shall in all cases review all judgments, rulings, or orders raised on appeal which may affect the proceedings below and which were rendered subsequent to the first judgment, ruling, or order held erroneous. Nothing in this subsection shall require the appellate court to pass upon questions which are rendered moot.

(e) Where an appeal is taken pursuant to this Code section for a judgment or order granting nonmonetary relief in a child custody case, such judgment or order shall stand until reversed or modified by the reviewing court unless the trial court states otherwise in its judgment or order.

ATTACHMENT G: OCGA § 5-6-35 (2017). CASES REQUIRING APPLICATION FOR APPEAL

OCGA § 5-6-35 (2017). Cases requiring application for appeal; requirements for application; exhibits; response; issuance of appellate court order regarding appeal; procedure; supersedeas; jurisdiction of appeal; appeals involving nonmonetary judgments in custody cases

(a) Appeals in the following cases shall be taken as provided in this Code section:

(1) Appeals from decisions of the superior courts reviewing decisions of the State Board of Workers' Compensation, the State Board of Education, auditors, state and local administrative agencies, and lower courts by certiorari or de novo proceedings; provided, however, that this provision shall not apply to decisions of the Public Service Commission and probate courts and to cases involving ad valorem taxes and condemnations;

(2) Appeals from judgments or orders in divorce, alimony, and other domestic relations cases including, but not limited to, granting or refusing a divorce or temporary or permanent alimony or holding or declining to hold persons in contempt of such alimony judgment or orders;

(3) Appeals from cases involving distress or dispossessory warrants in which the only issue to be resolved is the amount of rent due and such amount is $2,500.00 or less;

(4) Appeals from cases involving garnishment or attachment, except as provided in paragraph (5) of subsection (a) of Code Section 5-6-34;

(5) Appeals from orders revoking probation;

(5.1) Appeals from decisions of superior courts reviewing decisions of the Sexual Offender Registration Review Board;

(5.2) Appeals from decisions of superior courts granting or denying petitions for release pursuant to Code Section 42-1-19;

(6) Appeals in all actions for damages in which the judgment is $10,000.00 or less;

(7) Appeals, when separate from an original appeal, from the denial of an extraordinary motion for new trial;

(8) Appeals from orders under subsection (d) of Code Section 9-11-60 denying a motion to set aside a judgment or under subsection (e) of Code Section 9-11-60 denying relief upon a complaint in equity to set aside a judgment;

(9) Appeals from orders granting or denying temporary restraining orders;

(10) Appeals from awards of attorney's fees or expenses of litigation under Code Section 9-15-14;

(11) Appeals from decisions of the state courts reviewing decisions of the magistrate courts by de novo proceedings so long as the subject matter is not otherwise subject to a right of direct appeal; and

(12) Appeals from orders terminating parental rights.

(b) All appeals taken in cases specified in subsection (a) of this Code section shall be by application in the nature of a petition enumerating the errors to be urged on appeal and stating why the appellate court has jurisdiction. The application shall specify the order or judgment being appealed and, if the order or judgment is interlocutory, the application shall set forth, in addition to the enumeration of errors to be urged, the need for interlocutory appellate review.

(c) The applicant shall include as exhibits to the petition a copy of the order or judgment being appealed and should include a copy of the petition or motion which led directly to the order or judgment being appealed and a copy of any responses to the petition or motion. An applicant may include copies of such other parts of the record or transcript as he deems appropriate. No certification of such copies by the clerk of the trial court shall be necessary in conjunction with the application.

(d) The application shall be filed with the clerk of the Supreme Court or the Court of Appeals within 30 days of the entry of the order, decision, or judgment complained of and a copy of the application, together with a list of those parts of the record included with the application, shall be served upon the opposing party or parties as provided by law, except that the service shall be perfected at or before the filing of the application. When a motion for new trial, a motion in arrest of judgment, or a motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict has been filed, the application shall be filed within 30 days after the entry of the order granting, overruling, or otherwise finally disposing of the motion.

(e) The opposing party or parties shall have ten days from the date on which the application is filed in which to file a response. The response may be accompanied by copies of the record in the same manner as is allowed with the application. The response may point out that the decision of the trial court was not error, or that the enumeration of error cannot be considered on appeal for lack of a transcript of evidence or for other reasons.

(f) The Supreme Court or the Court of Appeals shall issue an order granting or denying such an appeal within 30 days of the date on which the application was filed.

(g) Within ten days after an order is issued granting the appeal, the applicant, to secure a review of the issues, shall file a notice of appeal as provided by law. The procedure thereafter shall be the same as in other appeals.

(h) The filing of an application for appeal shall act as a supersedeas to the extent that a notice of appeal acts as supersedeas.

(i) This Code section shall not affect Code Section 9-14-52, relating to practice as to appeals in certain habeas corpus cases.

(j) When an appeal in a case enumerated in subsection (a) of Code Section 5-6-34, but not in subsection (a) of this Code section, is initiated by filing an otherwise timely application for permission to appeal pursuant to subsection (b) of this Code section without also filing a timely notice of appeal, the appellate court shall have jurisdiction to decide the case and shall grant the application. Thereafter the appeal shall proceed as provided in subsection (g) of this Code section.

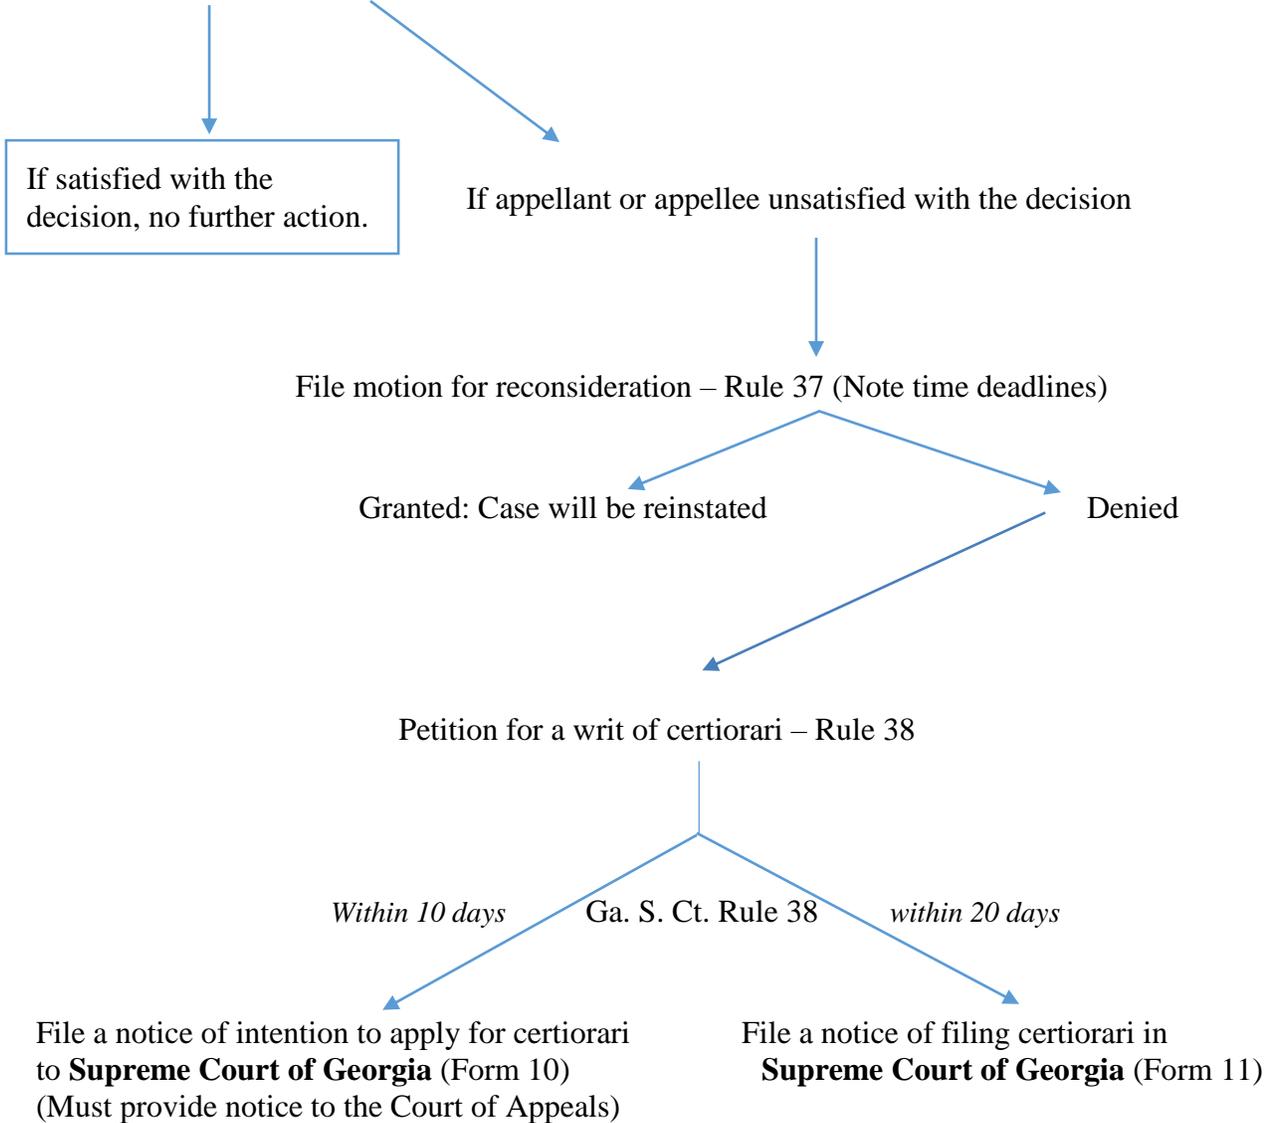

(k) Where an appeal is taken pursuant to this Code section for a judgment or order granting nonmonetary relief in a child custody case, such judgment or order shall stand until reversed or modified by the reviewing court unless the trial court states otherwise in its judgment or order.

ATTACHMENT H: DIRECT APPEAL OUTLINE

OUTLINE OF DIRECT APPEAL PROCESS

1. Appellant files a notice of appeal, usually in the trial court. See OCGA § 5-6-34 & § 44-7-56. Usually must file within 30 days (or 7 days in a dispossessory action) from the stamped filed date of the trial court order or judgment appealed.
 - Appellant must designate in the notice of appeal those parts of the trial court record that should be left out of the copy that the trial court sends to the Court of Appeals, and must designate whether any transcripts should be included. See OCGA § 5-6-42, § 5-6-43 and § 5-6-44.
 - Normally, appellant must pay costs to trial court before the appeal will be transmitted.
2. After preparing the record and receiving the transcripts from the court reporter, the trial court clerk sends the record and transcripts to the Court of Appeals.
3. When the Court of Appeal receives all of the designated documents from the trial court, it dockets the appeal. The appeal is given a case number and the case is assigned to a panel of three judges. The Court of Appeals Clerk's Office sends a docketing notice to the appellant(s) and appellee(s).
4. Within 20 days of the docketing date, the appellant must either file a brief or ask for and be granted an extension of time in which to file a brief. See Rules 23, 24, and 25.
 - a. The required format for a brief can be found in Court of Appeals Rules 24 and 25.
 - b. Unless an extension is granted, any response brief must be filed within 40 days after the case is docketed or 20 days of the filing date of the Appellant's brief, whichever is later. See Rule 23, 24, and 25.
5. Appellee must file its response brief 40 days after the case is docketed or 20 days after appellant files its brief, whichever is later. See Rule 23 (b).
6. Appellant may file a response to the appellee's brief within 20 days of the appellee's brief. See Rule 23 (c).
7. The Court issues its judgment in the case. The ruling is transmitted to all parties.

ATTACHMENT I: APPLICATIONS OUTLINE

OUTLINE OF DISCRETIONARY OR INTERLOCUTORY APPLICATION PROCESS

File the application in the Court of Appeals. (See Form 2) Note the strict deadlines in OCGA § 5-6-35 and the Court of Appeals Rules 30 and 31.

A discretionary application is granted only if:

- (1) Reversible error appears to exist; or
- (2) The Court wants to establish precedent for this kind of case.
See OCGA § 5-6-35; Rule 31 (b).

An interlocutory application is granted only if:

- (1) The issue to be decided would probably end the case;
- (2) The order that would be considered on appeal appears to be wrong and will probably cause a substantial error at trial or will adversely affect the rights of the appealing party until entry of final judgment, in which case the appeal will be expedited; or
- (3) The Court wants to establish precedent for this kind of case.
See OCGA § 5-6-34 (b); Rule 30 (b).

If the Court grants the application, then the Applicant must file a notice of appeal within 10 days of the order granting the application.

If the Court denies the application, then the Applicant may file a motion for reconsideration within 10 days (Rule 37).

- a. If the Court grants the motion, the Applicant does not have to do anything else until the Court rules on the application.
- b. If the Court denies the motion, the Applicant may file a notice of its intention to petition the Georgia Supreme Court for a writ of certiorari within ten days. A petition for a writ of certiorari in the Supreme Court is governed by the rules of that Court. The Applicant must provide notice to Court of Appeals on the same day that the petition is filed with the Supreme Court (Rule 38).

Case Number: _____ Lower Court: _____ County Superior Court

Court of Appeals Case Number and Style:

Your document(s) is (are) being returned for the following reason(s).

- There is no case pending in the Court of Appeals of Georgia under the name of _____.
- A Notice of Appeal is not filed with the Court of Appeals of Georgia, but usually with the clerk of the trial court. See OCGA §5-6-37. Once the trial court clerk has received and filed the Notice of Appeal, the trial court clerk will prepare a copy of the record and transcripts as designated by the Notice of Appeal and transmit them to this Court. Once docketed, a Docketing Notice with the Briefing Schedule and other important information is mailed to counsel or directly to the parties, if the parties are representing themselves. Do not provide this Court with a copy of the Notice of Appeal you filed with the superior court. We do not have a file to attach to your copy. The Notice of Appeal must include a proper Certificate of Service; it must show service to the opposing counsel and contain the counsel's full name and complete mailing address. The opposing counsel must actually be served with a copy of your filing.
- An Application for Writ of Habeas Corpus should be filed in the superior court of the county in which you claim you are illegally detained. An appeal from a denial of an Application for Writ of Habeas Corpus is to the Supreme Court and not the Court of Appeals.
- Your appeal was disposed by opinion (order) on _____. The Court of Appeals _____ . The remittitur issued on _____ divesting this Court of jurisdiction. The case decision is therefore final.
- If you intended to file in the _____ this is their address:
- If an attorney has been appointed for you and you are concerned with the representation provided by that attorney, you should address that issue to the trial court. As long as you are represented by an attorney, you cannot file pleadings on your own behalf. Your attorney must file a Motion to Withdraw as Counsel and it must be granted, before you can file your own pleadings in this Court.

- A request for an out-of-time appeal of a direct appeal should be made to the trial court from which you are appealing. If your motion is denied by the trial court, you can file an appeal of that decision.
